THE BIRTH-PLACE of SIR CHRISTOPHER WREN.—In the village of East Knoyle, Wilts, celebrated as the birth-place of the Father of English Architecture, it is proposed to erect a neat and suitable Congregational Chapel, capable of containing about 200 persons, to meet the wants of those residents who prefer this form of worship. As the expense of this erection must be principally met by an appeal to the sympathy of the Christian public, it is presumed there are generous men amongst the profession who will kindly and gratuitously contribute a set of plans of some worthy of the historical association of the place, and recommended by their simple and inexpensive character to the means of the promoters. There is a remarkably green sand-stone on the spot, which could be delivered by Rail; those drawings for the building.—Any further information can be obtained by applying to the Rev. S. EVANS, Shaftesbury; or Mr. STENT, Warwick.
